Monthly Emergency Population Release Report

August 2009

In August 2009, a total of 21 pre-trial inmates left the Multnomah County jail in two forced release events (also known as emergency population releases). This compares similarly to July when a total of 25 inmates were force released. Of the 21 inmates released in August, 6 had been jailed on a charge related to behavioral crimes, 7 jailed for property crimes, 7 for drugs, and 1 for a traffic crime. All 21 released inmates were men. The highest risk score among those released was for an accused behavioral crime offender (57). The average risk score among the entire group of August forced releases was 36.
